1.2. What national legislation has been adopted in your State to implement the above-mentioned agreements and arrangements?

In December of 2018, the Estonian Parliament passed a bill, which implements UN resolution 2178, the CoE's Convention on the Prevention of Terrorism Additional Protocol (CETS 217) and EU Directive 2017/541 into national law. The bill also brings Estonian legislation in line the additional protocol of the Council of Europe convention on the prevention of terrorism. Amongst other things, the bill expanded the notion of victims of terrorism and the elements of crime with regard to the crime of terrorism.

In 2020, Estonia fully implemented the EU Directive 2018/843 (AMLD V) on anti-money laundering and terrorist financing and the EU Directive 2018/1673 on combating money laundering by criminal law into its national legislation.

Necessary amendments to the Penal Code, the Money Laundering and Terrorism Financing Prevention Act, the Victim Support Act and the Code of Criminal Procedure have been adopted by the Estonian Parliament in accordance with the directives of the European Union.

Based on the abovementioned 2018 bill, activities related to terrorism were added to the list of crimes:

According to the two Council of Europe conventions mentioned in the list of multilateral international agreements and Section 413 of the Criminal Procedure Act, the Minister of Justice or a legal authority appointed by the Minister can apply for the arresting of a person's assets in another country.

The measures for countering terrorism in Estonia are set in Internal Security Development Plan (ISDP) 2020-2030, which sets goals for counter-terrorism to be proceeded from in the prevention, combating and detection of terrorism and the resolution of emergencies. The ISDP also gives an overview of the present situation concerning the field, the future aims and means in order to combat terrorism and of the roles of all of the authorities associated with counter-terrorism agenda. ISDP priorities are in conformity with the UN CT Global Strategy, as well as the main principles and priorities of the UN, EU, CoE, OSCE and international law (including the protection of human rights).

Estonia has aligned itself with the conclusions and plan of action of the extraordinary European Council meeting of 21 September 2001, and with the EU common positions 2001/930/CFSP, 2001/931/CFSP, 2002/340/CFSP and 2002/976/CFSP. These documents specify the methods and resources for combating terrorism and terrorist financing. They also contain lists of the persons, groups, and organizations accused of furthering terrorism or financing terrorism. Estonia has also associated itself with the North Atlantic Council statement of 12 September 2001.

The international Convention for the Suppression of the Financing of Terrorism was ratified by the Estonian Parliament (Riigikogu) on 20 March 2002, and entered into force in respect of Estonia on 21 June 2002.

The International Sanctions Act establishes a more precise legal basis for enacting measures necessary for the adoption of international sanctions, thereby making it easier for Estonia to fulfil her international obligations. This Act regulates the internal application of international sanctions where UN Security Council, EU Council, some other international organization or the Government of the Republic at its own initiative has decided to impose such sanctions. A new International Sanctions Act was adopted on 5 October 2010. On 5th October 2010 the new International Sanctions Act entered into force.

The Explosives Act is for the purposes of ensuring public order and security, it provides the legislation for handling, using and storing the explosives, as well as sets the guidelines for state supervision.

The Emergency Act provides for the legal bases for crisis management, including preparing for and resolving an emergency as well as ensuring the continuity of vital services. This Act also governs the declaration, resolution and termination of an emergency situation, the involvement of the Defence Forces and the Defence League in resolving an emergency.

Terrorist financing is the allocation or raising of funds to plan or perform acts, which are deemed to be acts of terrorism within the meaning of the Penal Code or to finance the operation of terrorist organizations or in the knowledge that the funds allocated or raised will be used for the aforementioned purposes.

On the basis of a court warrant it is possible, according to Section 83 of the Penal Code, to confiscate objects used to commit an intentional offence and the assets acquired through the offence if these belong to the offender at the time of the court ruling. Therefore, if a person is found guilty of supporting terrorists or participating in a crime, which has been committed to finance terrorism, it is possible to confiscate the guilty person's assets, which were meant for financing terrorism, or assets to the extent of the financing of terrorism. This is reflected in Penal Code Sections 83 and 84 (Confiscation and the substitution of confiscation, respectively).

The Criminal Procedure Act, the Estonian Surveillance Act and the Security Authorities Act provide wide enough powers to organize prosecution activities in the framework of combating terrorism.

Estonia has recently achieved progress in the development of crisis management plans for high security risk locations (i.e. airports, harbors), protection of public space and soft targets. We have raised the competence and renewed the technology and equipment (including decontamination capacity) of the Estonian Internal Security Service's CBRN team and Estonian Rescue Board's CBRN team.

Estonia has organized a CBRN exercise in Tallinn (October 2019), led by Estonian Internal Security Service (KAPO) – the main authority in Estonia, responsible for CBRN related cases. The exercise was made in cooperation with and participation of all relevant public and private sector partners. The exercise was taped and has been used as training material for more recent CBRN-related table-top exercises.

1.3. What are the roles and missions of military, paramilitary and security forces and the police in preventing and combating terrorism in your State?

Institutions

Different institutions have an important role in the fight against terrorism. The two main agencies are the Internal Security Service (KAPO) and the Police and Border Guard Board, both of which operate under the Ministry of the Interior. They cooperate with different institutions, which include the Headquarters of the Defence Forces, the Department of Prisons of the Ministry of Justice, the Tax and Customs Board and the Estonian Foreign Intelligence Service (EFIS).

The Ministry of the Interior plays an integral part in the fight against terrorism in Estonia. It develops the internal security policy and the crisis management policy and organizes the implementation thereof. The Ministry also coordinates the activities of the agencies in its area of government in ensuring public order and national internal security, including in countering terrorism. The Minister of the Interior establishes the security levels for ports and port facilities based on threat analysis. The Ministry is also responsible for the programs for newly arrived migrants. Different programs include: free language studies and counselling, integration and adaption programs and support person systems.

More information on the integration and adaption program on: www.settleinestonia.ee

Internal Security Service

The role of the Internal Security Service in the Estonian judicial system is regulated by the Security Authorities Act. A broader function of the Estonian Internal Security Service is the maintenance of national security through collection of information and implementation of preventive measures as well as investigation of offences. The main task of the Internal Security Service is the protection of the constitutional order and territorial integrity of Estonia. The agency collects and processes information to prevent and combat different intelligence activities directed against Estonia.

One of its main tasks is fighting terrorism, including the investigation of financing, supporting and other terrorism related crimes. The Internal Security Service also fights against CBRN threats – the agency is the main responsible agency for non-proliferation of weapons of mass destruction and conduct of proceedings of offences related to explosive substances. In addition, the Internal Security Service publishes public annual reviews of Estonian internal security situation, which also includes the situation and possible threats concerning terrorism. The latest annual review 2020-2021 from KAPO, which includes a terrorism-related assessment, is available in English at: <https://kapo.ee/en/content/annual-reviews/>.

The Estonian Internal Security Service is among the security authorities that have also been assigned the tasks of the police. This means investigation of offences and, for instance, the legal right to apply coercive measures.

The Internal Security Service cooperates actively with the security and law enforcement authorities of other states and with international organizations in order to fight different security threats, including terrorism. The agency has the right to receive and collect all pertinent information on pre-trial investigations conducted by law enforcement authorities of other EU member states and Europol in relation to acts of terrorism. In addition, pursuant to the PRÜM Treaty/UN Security Council Resolution 2178, the Estonian Internal Security Service is an international point of contact (POC) for counter terrorism.

The competent authorities in Estonia involved in combating terrorism either directly or indirectly have close contacts and relations with the relevant institutions of other countries and international organizations. There is a well-functioning co-operation with international organizations (INTERPOL, EUROPOL) in the framework of multilateral and bilateral agreements and according to the UN SC resolutions, which are binding to Estonia. A subcommittee of National Security Committee of the Government has been established to coordinate fight against terrorism.

The Estonian Internal Security Service is using covert methods, provided by the Security Authorities Act, for preventing international terrorism in Estonia with a view to all activities covered by Section 2 of UN SC resolution 1390 – the movement of terrorists and their groups, financial support, as well as the supply of arms and explosives.

Police and Border Guard Board (PBGB)

In its present structure, the Police and Border Guard Board started its work on 1 January 2010 when Police Board, Central Criminal Police, Public Order Police, Border Guard Board, and Citizenship and Migration Board were merged. On the basis of the former police prefectures, border guard territories and regional offices of Citizenship and Migration Board, four territorial prefectures were formed which are incorporated into PBGB and form one authority as of 2012.

As a result, the PBGB encompasses under itself many different actors and activities relevant to the fight against terrorism. This includes the Financial Intelligence Unit, securing of the EU's external border, determination of citizenship and issue of documents, public order and finally investigation and preventions of criminal activities. As the PBGB is a police authority, its main tasks are the prevention and processing of offences and enforcement of punishments, also relating to the fight against terrorism. The PBGB also commands a Special Intervention Unit called K-Commando, for supporting the investigations and dealing with the planning and execution of tactical and strategic operations that also involve terrorist crisis.

As Estonia ensures the guarding and protection of the external borders of the Schengen Area, the function of border guard is extremely important. In its actions, the border guard relies on the Schengen legislation and the principles of integrated border management. The important parts of the integrated border management are border surveillance and risk analysis, checking of documents at the border, cross-border crime investigation in cooperation with internal security authorities of other countries, work of the liaison officers in third countries and other types of international cooperation. A well-functioning border guard helps to diminish terrorist threat and also prevent illegal border crossing to European Union. The priority of Estonia's border policy for the next five years is the construction of a modern land border line on the Schengen external border.

The Police and Border Guard Board website in English: <https://www.politsei.ee/en/>

Since the beginning of 2020 the PBGB has designated a position of local coordinator, responsible for development of local multiagency network (incl. local communities and private sector partners) on prevention of radicalization.

In cooperation with Estonian Academy of Security Sciences, the PBGB, KAPO and local experts have established additional courses and guidelines to raise the expertise of first line practitioners (law enforcement, prison and probation and rescue service officers, specialists in local authorities, social workers, teachers, psychologists, etc.) to detect and react to the radicalization on early stage.

The Estonian Ministry of the Interior has established an operational format of co-operation against antisemitism within the Estonian Jewish Community.

The PBGB also deals with the enforcement of citizenship and migratory policy according to the Aliens Act and the Citizenship Act. This includes the administration of residence permits, the issue of the documents and the determination of citizenship. The goal of Estonian migratory policy is to facilitate settlement of those people, whose residence is consistent with the public interest and preventing the entry of those, who may pose a threat to public order or national security.

As of 1 January 2021, the Financial Intelligence Unit (FIU) is an independent government agency under the jurisdiction of the Ministry of Finance. The FIU was established on 1 July 1999 within the Police Board.

As stated by its slogan, the Estonian FIU is the guardian of honest financial transactions.

The grounds of its activities are regulated by the Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing Prevention Act. The FIU's mission is to ensure the transparency and honesty of financial transactions through the collection, analysis and sharing of financial intelligence information in order to prevent the use of the financial system and economic space of the Republic of Estonia for money laundering, financing terrorism and evading financial sanctions.

The FIU's strategy for 2022–2026 is

- to be the risk analysis centre and influencer of risk management in the state;
- thereby implementing more intelligent and digital solutions;
- as well as to be the centre of competence for the prevention of money laundering and terrorism financing in the Republic of Estonia.

To accomplish its mission, the FIU cooperates closely with other institutions in Estonia and elsewhere, and belongs to the Egmont Group that connects the financial intelligence units across the world. Our employees represent Estonia in several ways, including at Financial Action Task Force (FATF) that creates international standards, and at the MONEYVAL Bureau by the Council of Europe that assesses implementation of international standards.

Estonian Foreign Intelligence Service

The Estonian Foreign Intelligence Service (EFIS) operates under the Ministry of Defence. EFIS collects and analyses different data concerning Estonian external security including terrorist threat and accordingly has an important role of shaping Estonian national defence and security policy. EFIS is seen as a frontline of Estonian security, since intelligence information provides precautionary warnings about possible threats, including terrorism.

The latest annual review from EFIS (published in January 2022) is available in English: <https://raport.valisluureamet.ee/en/>.

The Estonian legislation provides basis for using Defence Forces or Defence League in resolving acts of terrorism if such necessity occurs. The use of the Defence Forces or the Defence League is decided by the Government by a regulation with the approval of the President. Additionally, the Law Enforcement Act permits the use of Defence Forces and Defence League in protection of public order, in this case the prevention or obstruction of an attack against national defence objects.

Estonian Information System Authority

As critical functions of the society are handled by different computer systems, the field of cybersecurity is becoming more important to the fight against terrorism. In Estonia, the development of the national information system and responding to security incidents are organised by the Estonian Information System Authority. The tasks of the Authority, in relation to the fight against terrorism, are to monitor and advise the providers of public services. More specifically on how to manage their information systems as per requirements, executing supervision over information systems used to provide vital services, the implementation of the security measures of the information assets related to them and handling the security incidents that occur in Estonian computer networks.

The Estonian Information System Authority website in English: <https://www.ria.ee/en/>

The Prosecutor's Office

The Prosecutor's Office directs pre-trial criminal proceedings, ensuring lawfulness and effectiveness thereof; represents public prosecution in court, participates in planning surveillance activities necessary for prevention and identification of crimes, and performs other duties assigned to the Prosecutor's Office by the law. The Prosecutor's Office prosecutes crimes in cooperation with different investigative bodies. In addition, the Prosecutor's Office performs obligations arising from international cooperation, including participation in the work of Eurojust.

Committees

There are several councils and committees that analyse and make decisions concerning terrorism.

- The Security Committee of the Government of the Republic analyses and assesses the security situation, including the threat of terrorism in the country, coordinates the activities of security authorities, and determines the national need for security related information.
- The Counter-Terrorism Council of the Security Committee of the Government submits proposals to improve the efficiency of counter-terrorism activities to the Security Committee and supports the coordination and cooperation between the relevant authorities.
- Governmental Committee for the Coordination of Issues Related to the Prevention of Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing coordinates the implementation of legal acts related to the prevention of money laundering and terrorist financing and makes proposals to the Government to improve the efficiency of the measures aimed at countering the problem.
- Crisis Management Committee of the Government coordinates the activities of government authorities in preparing for emergencies in crisis management issues within its competence, including in the event of a terrorist act.

Other ministries

As terrorism is a very complex issue, different ministries and agencies have an important role in counter-terrorism.

- Ministry of Justice develops the national justice and criminal policy, including the legislation related to preventing, combating and solving acts of terrorism and the related crimes.

- Ministry of Defence develops the national defence policy and coordinates defence-related international cooperation and the participation in international military operations. The Ministry also coordinates the activities of the Defence Forces and the Defence League in the provision of assistance to civil structures in accordance with the Emergency Act.
- Ministry of Finance develops the policy of preventing money laundering and terrorist financing.
- The Ministry of Foreign Affairs organises the protection of the interests of and the provision of consular assistance to the citizens of Estonia and, if necessary, of other European Union Member countries in cooperation with the authorities of the country of location and other relevant agencies in the event of a terrorist act organised in a foreign country.

Estonia is also a part of the Anti-Daesh Coalition and is a member of the Coalition's Political-Military Consultation. This Working Group is overseeing the Coalition's military efforts and supports efforts to alleviate the humanitarian situation created by Daesh in Syria and Iraq.

1.4. Provide any additional relevant information on national efforts to prevent and combat terrorism, e.g. those pertaining inter alia to:

1.4.1. Overall focus

Estonia strongly condemns all possible forms of terrorism and considers it as a significant threat to international security and peace. According to the Estonian Internal Security Service, the threat of terrorism in Estonia is considered as low and currently there are no active internal or international terrorist organisations operating in Estonia. Even though there have been so far no terrorist attacks on Estonian soil, there have been Estonian victims in terrorist attacks elsewhere.

The government of Estonia has set forth the priorities for the fight against terrorism in the Internal Security Development Plan 2020-2030.

According to the document, the terror threat in Estonia is low, but recent developments in Europe and elsewhere directly influence Estonia's security situation. One of the priorities is therefore to make sure that Estonia has the necessary readiness to quickly respond to threats. The document also emphasises the need for prevention. In order to prevent terrorism, it is necessary to fight against radicalisation and to hinder the financing of terrorism.

The main counter-terrorism activities according to the plan are the improvement of international cooperation, prevention of terrorism, radicalisation and recruitment, enforcement of international sanctions, fighting against illegal smuggling of strategic goods and fighting against money laundering. Estonia considers it important that human rights and fundamental freedoms are respected in counter-terrorism.

In Estonia, the main focus of counter-terrorism measures is on prevention, hence, law enforcement strategies are only part of the action taken. The main aim is to enhance social cohesion and prevent marginalization of potential target groups, thus social, education and integration policy are all included. To achieve that, we emphasise the cooperation of all different related agencies.

There are also crime and radicalization prevention programs for young people, for example through sports (SPIN program) or helping youngsters with the history of delinquency to enter the job market (STEP program).

1.4.2. Financing of terrorism

The Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing Prevention Act (last amended in January 2021) regulates the activities of credit institutions, financial institutions, the Financial Intelligence Unit (FIU) and other agencies and persons in the prevention of money laundering and terrorist financing.

The Act establishes the obligation of prudence of institutions in case of unusual, complicated transactions involving large sums of money. In case of money laundering or its suspicion, FIU must be notified immediately. In addition, persons are prohibited to fulfil transactions or conclude contracts if the other person does not provide the necessary documents or there is a suspicion of illegal activity. Every institution must draw up a set of procedural rules for the effective implementation of these obligations.

FIU supervises the activities of the institutions and the infringement of these provisions is punishable. The Estonian Internal Security Service also has an obligation to combat the financing of terrorism, according to Section 6 of the Security Authorities Act.

Money Laundering

Estonian anti-money laundering system is in accordance with international standards. Estonia implements all UN SC financial sanctions as they are part of the relevant EU policies, which are subject of direct implementation in the EU member states.

On 1 July 1999, the Estonian Financial Intelligence Unit (FIU) was created and it started to fulfil its functions (receiving, analyzing and disseminating suspicious transaction reports). Estonian FIU is a member of Egmont Group. From 2004, the FIU is responsible for receiving, analyzing and disseminating suspicious transaction reports on terrorist financing.

The 2008 reduction of the Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing Prevention Act (MLTFPA, latest update on 2020 on virtual currency) introduced the principles of the EU 4 Anti-Money Laundering and Countering Financing of Terrorism (AML/CFT) Directive in Estonian legislation. Implementation of the Act meant risk-based accumulation of strategic goals. Cooperation between the police, investigative bodies, competent state authorities and obliged persons as well as international cooperation has remained a priority since then.

In 2006, the responsibility of AML/CFT policy was taken over by the Ministry of Finance. Previously the Ministry of Interior and the Money Laundering Committee of the Estonian Banking Association had the task. A corresponding Government Committee for coordination was established in the spring of the same year (Order No. 285 of the Government of the Republic of 11 May 2006). The Advisory Committee of Market Participants was established at the same time. All agencies engaged in the prevention of money laundering are represented in the Government Committee, including a representative of the Ministry of Economic Affairs and Communications. The Government Committee meets regularly and problems are solved on ad hoc basis, incl. those pointed out by the risk analyses conducted by agencies.

In the event of suspicion of money laundering or terrorist financing, the Financial Intelligence Unit may issue a precept to suspend a transaction and to impose restrictions on the disposal of an account or other property constituting the object of the transaction, professional operation or professional service or other assets or property suspected of being associated with money laundering or terrorist financing for up to 30 days as of the delivery of the precept. In the event of property registered in the land register, ship register, Estonian Central Register of Securities, traffic register, construction register or another state register, the Financial Intelligence Unit may, in the event of justified suspicion, restrict the disposal of the property for the purpose of ensuring its preservation for up to 30 days. On the basis of a precept of the Financial Intelligence Unit may additionally restrict the use of property for up to 60 days for the purpose of ensuring its preservation if:

- during verification of the source of the property in the event that there is a suspicion of money laundering, the owner or possessor of the property fails to submit evidence certifying the legality of the source of the property to the Financial Intelligence Unit within 30 days as of the suspension of the transaction or as of the imposition of restrictions on the use of the account or other assets or property;
- there is suspicion that the property is used for terrorist financing.

Property may be seized for longer periods only if criminal proceedings have been commenced in the matter. In this case, property shall be seized pursuant to the procedure provided by the Acts regulating criminal procedure.

If the owner of assets or property has not been identified, the Financial Intelligence Unit may request that the administrative court give permission to restrict the disposal of the assets or property until the owner of the assets or property has been identified, including also in the event of termination of the criminal procedure, but not for more than one year. The possessor of the assets or property against whom the restriction of disposal of the assets or property is being decided has the right to give an explanation to the administrative court within the prescribed term. If the owner of assets or property has not been identified within one year after the establishment of restrictions on the disposal of the assets or property, the Financial Intelligence Unit or the Prosecutor's Office may apply to the administrative court for permission to transfer the assets or property to state ownership. The administrative court shall decide the granting of the permission in a court hearing. The assets or property shall be sold pursuant to the procedure provided for in the Code of Enforcement Procedure and the amount received from the sale shall be transferred to state revenue. The owner of the property has the right to claim an amount corresponding to the value of the assets or property within three years as of the date of transfer of the assets or property to state revenue.

In March 2022, the latest International Sanctions Act entered into force in compliance with the MLTPFA. The purpose of this Act is, in accordance with the Charter of the United Nations, to maintain or restore peace, prevent conflicts and strengthen international security, support and strengthen democracy, follow the principles of state based on the rule of law, human rights and international law, and to achieve other targets of the common foreign and security policy of the European Union. Generally the supervision of the application of international financial sanctions is performed by the Financial Intelligence Unit.

In case of doubt that a subject of international financial sanction has used or disposed of funds or economic resources, the FIU is also entitled to suspend the transaction by its precept and to establish a restriction of transfer of the assets being the object of the transaction for a term up to 30 days from the delivery of the precept.

If the FIU confirms, that the person is a subject of international financial sanction, then the FIU will notify the subject of the international financial sanction in writing within two working days about the:

- exact extension and substance;
- legal bases;
- commencement date;
- basis and regulation for exceptions.

In case a subject of international sanction applies for exceptions in applying the sanction or challenges his or her status as a subject of international sanction, then the FIU will resolve such issue by its administrative act, which can be contested according to the rules stipulated in the Administrative Procedure Act.

The rights of supervisory authorities are provided for in the MLTFPA. The FSA supervises credit and financial institution which fall under its supervision by virtue of the FSA Act with regard to the fulfilment of their obligations arising from the MLTFPA (FSA Act, §6(1) 7 and MLTFPA, §47(2)). Supervised entities include credit institutions (incl. foreign bank branches), investment firms, fund management companies, life and non-life insurance companies, insurance brokers (but not insurance agents), the Traffic Insurance Fund and the Tallinn Stock Exchange. The Estonian FIU exercises supervision over all other obligated persons engaged in financial activities (MLTFPA, §2).

The communication system is based on the provisions of the ISA and encompasses consultations among the MFA, FIU and the FSA, and in cooperation with other relevant Government agencies and the relevant EC body. The FIU publishes the information about the imposition, amendment or termination of an international financial sanction immediately after receiving the information, notably by making it available on its web page. The FIU website allows the obligated entities to do a name-search in both UN and the EU consolidated lists. The FIU provides an "update service" on its website. The obligated entities are themselves obliged to check whether there are updates. There is also a link to the EU Official Journal and credit institutions are obliged to follow this list. If the FIU receives information (not restricted to lists) from foreign FIUs or other jurisdictions/international organizations, the FIU will forward it to banks. The entities obligated under the ISA are credit institutions, providers of currency exchange services, electronic money institutions, providers of payment services, insurers and insurance brokers, management companies and investment funds established as public limited companies, account holders within the meaning of Estonian Central Register of Securities Act, investment firms, savings and loan associations, other financial institutions, and branches of foreign service providers. The FIU gives practical guidance to them on their responsibilities under the freezing regime. All AML/CFT training provided by the FIU to the obligated persons covers the EU and UN freezing regime. Also, one used tool for implementing different international sanctions is “Sanctions map” (www.sanctionsmap.eu).

1.4.2. Border controls

At the European level the Estonian Police and Border Guard Board mainly cooperates with the European Agency for the Management of Operational Cooperation at the External Borders of the Member States of the European Union (FRONTEX) on exchange of information about cross-border movement of persons who represent specific categories, which forms the basis for a risk analysis prepared by FRONTEX. Risk analysis is one of the elements in planning operative-tactical activities for checking persons crossing the borders. Participation in operational, training and other activities coordinated by FRONTEX facilitates more efficient information exchange between the Member States of the European Union in fight against cross-border criminality.

As a regular procedure the Estonian Police and Border Guard Board has a monthly information exchange in the framework of the Border Control Co-operation of the Baltic Sea States. The information exchanged pertains to events and occurrences that have taken place on the borders of the cooperating countries. Estonia together with Latvia, Lithuania, Poland, Germany, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Finland and the Russian Federation participates in the above-mentioned format. Since November 2001, an information exchange procedure with regard to the detention of terrorists and persons connected with terrorist organizations on the borders of the Baltic Sea states has been in force. As per agreement, the co-operation partners will be immediately informed about any and all extraordinary occurrences that may be of interest to the countries participating in this format.

Cooperation between the Baltic States and activities in the framework of the Border Guarding sub-committee of Baltic Council of Ministers facilitates exchange of information between the three neighboring countries. Under the aegis of the aforementioned form of cooperation joint operations and different meetings of experts for the discussion of border management issues and best practices are carried out, and in the fight against cross-border criminality.

In the framework of agreement between the Estonian Police and Border Guard Board and Internal Security Service (KAPO) information has been exchanged between the agencies. On a regular basis the KAPO supplies the Police and Border Guard Board with lists of persons suspected of terrorism or supporting terrorism in order to check, and if need be hinder the border crossing of any such persons. Pursuant to legal acts, shipping companies offering passenger transport services are obliged to transmit electronic lists of passengers to the Police and Border Guard Board officials. Analysis of passenger information enables to fight against criminality and terrorism. Similarly, the Police and Border Guard Board receives electronic lists of passengers on board of aircrafts arriving to Estonia directly from outside of the European Union.

Border crossing points are equipped with AFIS (Automated Fingerprint Information System) devices that enable identification of persons on the basis of their fingerprints. Additionally, the border crossing points are equipped with devices enabling checking of biometric data from e-passports.

In order to hinder the use of forged, lost or stolen documents, and to prevent the border crossing of persons wanted or persons whose entry into the country has been restricted, the border crosser's information is checked against a database on their arrival to and departure from the country. For the discovery of forged travel documents and the prevention of their use, all border points have been equipped with document control devices, and systems for document analysis.

The Commission of the Control of the Import, Export and Transit of Strategic Goods monitors and implements through the Estonian legislative system the sanctions, boycotts and embargoes established by the UN, OSCE and the EU.

The Estonian Tax and Customs Board (hereinafter ETCB) in co-operation with the Estonian Internal Security Service has taken actions for more efficient implementation of the measures concerning the fulfilment of Resolution 1390 of the UN SC.

1.4.3. Travel document security

The Estonian Police and Border Guard Board has implemented various features to maintain a high level of security for travel documents. Travel documents of the Republic of Estonia meet the requirements of ICAO and the European Union:

- mandatory uniformed verification procedures are required for document application and issuance;
- fingerprint biometrics was introduced as of 29 June 2009;
- fingerprint verification against images on document chip during document issuance was introduced in December 2009.

In the beginning of 2014, Police and Border Guard Board began issuing new generation Estonian travel documents. In addition to enhanced security elements new documents comply with EU requirements for SAC/PACE.

The additional measures to support the security of travel documents include also the following:

- validity of travel documents can be verified on the webpage of Police and Border Guard Board;
- information on lost and stolen documents and blanks is forwarded to Interpol and made available on the Internet;
- Police and Border Guard Board provides the notary, credit institutions and other authorities entitled by law with the document holders' data (facial image, signature, personal code) for the purpose of the reliable identification of persons."

Estonia notes that in order to efficiently tackle the problem of terrorists' travel by administrative means, the question of security of travel documents has to be viewed in conjunction with the effective use of technological capabilities of the 21st century.

With that in mind, more attention should be paid to the ability of using technological means and databases for both law enforcement and border control purposes. Thus common standards on legal instruments, for instance regarding passenger name records (PNR) have to be drawn up in the nearest possible future.

1.4.4. Container and supply chain security

The Estonian Tax and Customs Board does not have x-ray machines in the ports and trans-illuminations are not carried out. However, a risk evaluation and direction of goods and vehicles to be controlled on the basis of existing data is carried out. There is access to the data-processing system of the container terminal of the port and it is being used for risk analysis purposes and for sending suspicious containers to customs check.

1.4.5. Security of radioactive sources

The field of security of radioactive sources is regulated by Radiation Act which is in accordance with EU Council directive 2003/122/Euratom and other International conventions and standards.

1.4.6. Use of the Internet and other information networks for terrorist Purposes

Estonia is in the process of developing additional capacity to identify and interrupt terrorism-related activities on the internet. Estonia support the EU initiative to counter terrorist content online in cooperation with private sector, incl. the EU Internet Forum.

Several Estonian ministries (incl MOD, MOJ, MOE etc) and agencies (incl. the Police and Border Guard Board, KAPO, etc) are involved in development of needed measures – internet monitoring, interoperability, legal oversight and technical support in a context of cyber security and counter terrorism.

Estonian law enforcement agencies are involved in Europol and Interpol information sharing communities (including SIS II and SLTD data bases).

Web-constables are police officers working on the internet (including on Facebook). They respond to notifications and letters submitted by people or private partners online and train people at issues of internet security: <https://www2.politsei.ee/en/nouanded/veebikonstaablid/index.dot>. Web constables cooperate with the Internet Referral Unit of the Europol Counter Terrorism Center (ECTC) on countering illegal web-content and the violent propaganda.

1.4.7. Legal co-operation including extradition

Estonia has not received or submitted any requests for extradition or European arrest warrants (EAW) with respect to terrorism charges. The surrender of people in order to conduct criminal proceedings or to execute a court judgement which has entered into force takes place within the EU on the basis of the Council Framework Decision of 13 June 2002 on the European arrest warrant and the surrender procedures between the Member States (2002/584/JHA). The procedure for extradition with third countries takes place on the basis of the European Convention on Extradition and the First and Second Additional Protocol to the European Convention on Extradition. Upon conducting proceedings concerning the EAWs or requests for extradition submitted to Estonia with respect to terrorism charges there are no differences in comparison with the proceedings conducted with respect to the EAWs or requests for extradition submitted in other criminal offences.

The surrender of a person arrested in Estonia on the basis of EAW shall be decided by the court of first instance. The Government of the Republic shall decide on the extradition of an Estonian citizen; the Minister of Justice shall decide on the extradition of an alien.

2. Stationing of armed forces on foreign territory

2.1. Provide information on stationing of your State's armed forces on the territory of other participating States in accordance with freely negotiated agreements as well as in accordance with international law

National Defence Act establishes basis for simple and flexible decision-making procedures for implementing Estonian international military obligations (taking into account NATO membership). The Act also provides rules for visiting forces on the territory of the Republic of Estonia.

When stationing or receiving forces, the following principles are applied in respect of the legal status of the forces:

Unless otherwise agreed, the NATO/PfP SOFA is applied when co-operating with other countries that have signed this agreement (Agreement between the Parties to the North Atlantic Treaty and the Other States Participating in the Partnership for Peace regarding the status of their forces). Concerning the Baltic military co-operation projects, NATO SOFA governs the relationships between the Baltic states in respect of the status of the forces when stationed in the territory of either of the Baltic states, supplemented by trilateral agreements on the status of joint units and implementation measures to be taken in support of the projects.

When co-operating with states that are not signatories to the NATO/PfP SOFA, separate arrangements are concluded prior to the stationing or receiving the forces, with due respect to international law. If forces are stationed abroad as a contribution to a peace support operation mandated by the United Nations or by regional organization in accordance with the United Nations Charter, the status of the forces will be determined by the Status of Forces Agreement negotiated by Estonia, the responsible organization or the leading nation and the receiving state.

Participation in International Operations

Estonia is an active member of the international community, in the UN, the EU and NATO. Participation in Peace Support Operations is a high priority for Estonia as means to contribute both regional and global security and stability, including fight against terrorism and its root causes. Estonia has participated in different international military operations since 1995.

Estonia's participation in international military operations as of April 2022:

Operation	Leading organisation/state	Mandate (current real contribution) 2022

	Together in readiness:	304

3. Implementation of other international commitments related to the Code of Conduct

3.1. Provide information on how your State ensures that commitments in the field of arms control, disarmament and confidence- and security-building as an element of indivisible security are implemented in good faith

Arms control, disarmament and non-proliferation are integral elements of Estonian security policy. Estonia attaches importance to a lower level of armaments, combined with transparency and verification mechanisms and stringent measures to prevent proliferation.

Estonia is a party and adheres to all major international treaties prohibiting weapons of mass destruction. Estonia shares the concerns and expectations of the international community regarding disarmament and non-proliferation. Gaining control over illicit trafficking of small arms and light weapons is considered of high importance. Estonia has established a well-functioning export control system - the current export control legislation and procedures are compatible with the EU regulations, the EU Code of Conduct on Arms Exports and with international export control and non-proliferation regimes.

According to the principles of the non-proliferation agreements and conventions that Estonia has ratified (BTWC, CWC, NPT, CCW, Ottawa Convention, CTBT), the Government of Estonia has legal measures for effective implementation of the export control system based on the guidelines of the Australia Group, Nuclear Suppliers Group, Missile Technology Control Regime and the Wassenaar Arrangement, aiming to prevent the supplying, selling and transfer of arms, related materials, equipment, paramilitary equipment, spare parts and technical advice, assistance or training.

Furthermore, Estonia has been a supporter of the establishment of highest possible common standards for regulating the international trade in conventional arms and therefore was an active participant in the United Nations Arms Trade Treaty negotiations. Estonia signed the treaty on 3 June 2013 and presented the letter of ratification/accession to the treaty on 2 April 2014.

3.2. Provide information on how your State pursues arms control, disarmament and confidence- and security-building measures with a view to enhancing security and stability in the OSCE area.

Arms control plays an important role in increasing international security and building mutual trust. Estonia supports international agreements on arms control that increases the security for Estonian and internationally. Estonia expects other states to follow the same principle.

Estonia remains fully committed to the existing OSCE conventional arms control and confidence and security building instruments. Estonia strongly believes that when those instruments are implemented fully, in letter and spirit, they increase transparency and trust, and reduce risk and the room for misunderstanding and unintended escalation. In 2021, verification activities continued to be affected by the COVID-19 pandemic. However, Estonia opened itself for verification activities and contact visits on 30 April 2021. In 2021, Estonia hosted a VDE and a VDI by the Russian Federation. In late November-early December Estonia conducted a VDI in the Russian Federation. The inspection was initially planned to take place in September 2021, during the exercise Zapad-2021, but was not accepted by Russia, referring to COVID-19 related reasons. Additionally, in September 2021, the three Baltic states hosted a joint event for visiting military bases in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania under the Vienna Document provisions.

Estonia welcomed the confidence building measures in relation to cybersecurity as outlined in the OSCE Permanent Council decision 1202. We are one of the co-adopters of the Confidence Building Measure number 14 on the promotion of public-private partnerships. It allows to develop and implement mechanisms that give the opportunity to exchange best practices in responding to common security challenges stemming from the use of Internet and Communications Technologies. The work conducted under the referenced OSCE CBMs will no doubt continue to support building confidence in the region.

SECTION II: INTRA-STATE ELEMENTS

1. National planning and decision-making process

1.1. What is the national planning and decision-making process in determining/approving military posture and defence expenditures in your State?

The principles of defence management are defined in the Estonian Constitution, the National Defence Act, the Estonian Defence Forces Organisation Act and other relevant legal acts.

On the 1st of January 2016, Estonia adopted its new National Defence Act that replaced the Peacetime National Defence Act, the Wartime National Defence Act and the International Military Co-operation Act.

Parliamentary decision is required for the deployment of Estonian forces for operations other than operations of collective security. There are no legal impediments to the entry of visiting forces into Estonian territory, provided that the appropriate Estonian authority (the Minister of Defence) has given an approval for entry.

The Estonian Defence Forces Organisation Act, which entered into force at the beginning of 2009, defines the legal status, functions and structure of the Defence Forces, the basis for the management of the Defence Forces and the basis for using force by the Estonian Defence Forces (EDF).

The Riigikogu (Parliament) establishes the legal basis for national defence (by adopting laws and ratifying international agreements), and approves the Security Concept. Acting on proposals made by the President of the Republic, Riigikogu declares state of war or state of emergency, declares mobilization and decides the use of the EDF in fulfilment of the international obligations of the state. Prime Minister is appointed and recalled by Riigikogu upon proposal from the President. The Commander of the Estonian Defence Forces (CHOD) is appointed by the Government.

Mobilization will be ordered by the Riigikogu on the proposal of the President of the Republic. In the case of an aggression against the Republic of Estonia the mobilization shall be ordered by the President of the Republic (hereinafter the President) without awaiting the resolution of the Riigikogu.

The President of the Republic declares a state of war and orders mobilisation. The President also promotes officers.

The National Defence Council functions as an advisory body to the President of the Republic in matters of national defence. The members of the council include the Speaker of the Parliament, the chairman of the National Defence Committee and the chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Riigikogu, the Prime Minister, the ministers responsible for the areas related to national defence, and the Commander of the Defence Forces. The President chairs the Council meetings.

The Government coordinates and directs national defence activities. On the proposal of the Minister of Defence, the Government approves the National Defence Strategy and the National Defence Development Plan, which are the other major national defence plans besides the National Security Concept. The Government appoints the Commander of Defence Forces. In case of a direct threat to national security, the Government, on the proposal of the Minister of Defence, decides on the change of military readiness level, but it shall also be approved by the Riigikogu.

The Government Security Committee analyses and assesses national security situation and coordinates the activities of the authorities of executive power with regard to planning, development, and organisation of national defence. The Committee is chaired by the Prime Minister, and its members include the Minister of Defence, the Minister of Economic Affairs and Infrastructure, the Minister of Entrepreneurship and IT, the Minister of Finance, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, the Minister of the Interior, and the Minister of Justice. The secretary of the committee is National Security and Defence Coordination Director.

The Ministry of Defence (MoD) and the Minister of Defence as its head are responsible for organising national defence. In general, the functions of the Ministry include making proposals for planning national defence policy, implementing the planned activities, and the organisation of national defence.

The primary function of the Estonian Defence Forces is the military defence of Estonia and participation in collective self-defence. The Defence Forces are led by the Commander of the Defence Forces (CHOD).

On 22 July 2011 an amendment of the Estonian Constitution entered into force. The purpose of the amendment was to strengthen civilian and democratic control over Defence Forces by clearly positioning the Defence Forces within the executive branch of the state. It also clarified the status of the Government, the President and the Minister of Defence in relation to CHOD. Pursuant to the amendment the CHOD is no longer appointed by the Parliament but by the Government. The proposal is made by the Minister of Defence and not by the President.

Defence budget forms a part of state budget, which is annually approved by the Riigikogu and promulgated by the President.

The Ministry of Defence establishes the guidelines for defence budget. The Headquarters of the Estonian Defence Forces is responsible for budgeting for the expenditures of defence forces and responsible for their financial steering.

1.2. How does your State ensure that its military capabilities take into account the legitimate security concerns of other States as well as the need to contribute to international security and stability?

Estonia's security policy is guided by the principles stipulated in the United Nations Charter, including the right and freedom of every country to choose their own solutions for security needs. Estonia's security policy is not directed against any other country. Working balance of both can be obtained through adherence to international law and to Estonia's international obligations. By being a party to different arms control treaties, Estonia accepts restraints on its military capabilities and adheres to the transparency measures of these treaties to dispel the security concerns other States might have. Estonia contributes actively to peace support operations in the framework of the UN and NATO thus contributing to international security and stability.

2. Existing structures and processes.

2.1. What are the constitutionally established procedures for ensuring democratic political control of military, paramilitary and internal security forces, intelligence services and the police?

The Estonian Defence Forces are subordinated to civil and democratic control. Estonia has established civil-military relations in accordance with the traditions of other democratic states. The principles of defence management are defined in the Estonian Constitution and other relevant legal acts.

Refer also to the information provided to question 1.1 in Section II.

In addition to the above-mentioned, it is necessary to mention the National Audit Office, which is an independent institution acting in the interests of the Estonian taxpayer whose function is to investigate how the state and local authorities have spent the taxpayer's money and what they have gained for it. The Auditor General (AG), who is appointed and recalled by Riigikogu upon proposal of the President, leads National Audit Office.

The work of security institutions is regulated by Security Authorities Act, which entered into force in 2001 and was last amended in 2020. This Act established a new set of functions and competence of Estonia's security institutions. Intelligence agencies have a role in ensuring national security through gathering and processing security-related information.

All intelligence services are subordinated to the respective Ministries (Ministry of Interior, Ministry of Defence). Intelligence-related tasks are divided between two agencies - the Internal Security Service and the Foreign Intelligence Service.

2.2. How is the fulfilment of these procedures ensured, and which constitutionally established authorities/institutions are responsible for exercising these procedures?

Please refer to the information provided to questions 1.1 and 2.1 in Section II.

2.3. What are the roles and missions of military, paramilitary and security forces, and how does your State control that such forces act solely within the constitutional framework?

The aim of Estonia's national defence policy is to guarantee the preservation of independence and sovereignty of the state, integrity of its land area, territorial waters and airspace, constitutional order, and safety of the people.

The primary function of the Estonian Defence Forces is the military defence of Estonia and participation in collective self-defence. The Defense Forces is led by the Commander of the Defence Forces.

The main tasks of the Border Guard, which as of 2010 is part of the unified Police and Boarder Guard Board, are to control and defend the border on land and territorial waters, to conduct sea surveillance and limited air surveillance to support those tasks, to prevent violent alterations of the border, and to carry out search and rescue operations.

The Defence League is a voluntary organization, which is a legal person governed by public law and whose purpose is to promote the will of the population to defend its country if necessary.

Refer also to information provided to questions 1.1 and 2.1 of Section II.

3. Procedures related to different forces personnel

3.1. What kind of procedures for recruitment and call-up of personnel for service in your military, paramilitary and internal security forces does your State have?

As is stated in the Constitution, every citizen of Estonia is required to participate in national defence. Every male citizen of Estonia is required to perform his duty to serve in the Defence Forces. Performance of the duty to serve in the Defence Forces is divided into performance of the conscript service obligation and performance of the reserve service obligation. With the Military Service Act that entered into force on 1 April 2013, also female citizens have a legal right to take part of the conscript service on a voluntary basis.

Procedures for the recruitment are defined in detail in Chapters 4, 5 and 6 of the Military Service Act.

3.2. What kind of exemptions or alternatives to military service does your State have?

Section 2 subsection 2 of the Military Service Act states who are required to serve in the Defence Forces. Refusal to serve in the Defence Forces on religious or ethical grounds does not release the person concerned from performance of the duty to serve in the Defence Forces. Therefore, section 4 states that a person, who refuses to serve in the Defence Forces for religious or ethical reasons, is required to perform alternative service pursuant to the procedure prescribed by law. Persons in alternative service will serve in units dealing with rescue tasks in the area of government of the Ministry of Interior or in state or local government institutions offering social services or in educational institutions for students with special needs.

3.3. What are the legal and administrative procedures to protect the rights of all forces personnel as well as conscripts?

All persons in Estonia have the right to the protection of the state and the law. The guarantee of rights and freedoms is the duty of the legislative, executive and judicial powers, as well as of local governments. All persons have the right of recourse to the courts if their rights or freedoms are violated. Chancellor of Justice acts as an ombudsman to whom all persons can turn for the protection of their constitutional rights.

The Chief Inspector of Estonian Defence Forces, who is nominated by the Commander of Defence Forces, acts as an ombudsman for military personnel. He reports directly to CHOD and his main duties involve carrying out inspections but also checking the applications and solving the problems raised in the complaints of the members of the defence forces.

There are no military courts in Estonia and therefore, cases that involve military personnel, are referred to civilian courts. Fair trial standards are provided to both civilians, as well as military.

Estonia is a party to the NATO/PfP SOFA and its Additional and Further Additional Protocols.

4. Implementation of other political norms, principles, decisions and international humanitarian law

4.1. How does your State ensure that International Humanitarian Law and Law of War are made widely available, e.g. through military training programmes and regulations?

Estonian Constitution states that generally recognized principles and rules of international law are an inseparable part of the Estonian legal system. According to the Constitution, the treaties that have been ratified by the Parliament, become part and parcel of the national legislation without any further delay. Estonian legal system is monistic – ratified international treaties are part of the national legal system and directly applicable. All the relevant legislative acts and international treaties are available to the public on the Riigi Teataja (State Gazette) webpage.

Estonia has fully acceded to the Geneva Conventions and its Additional Protocols, to the Convention on Prohibitions or Restrictions on the Use of Certain Conventional Weapons Which May Be Deemed to Be Excessively Injurious or to Have Indiscriminate Effects and its five Annexed Protocols, as well as to the Convention on the Prohibition of the Use, Stockpiling, Production and Transfer of Anti-personnel Mines and on their Destruction.

International humanitarian law and public international law are being taught at the Estonian Military Academy and at the Baltic Defence College. Principles and norms of international humanitarian law are being taught also at unit level and during conscription service. Legal seminars are held for military lawyers and senior officers. For the civilians there are programmes in place for secondary school students that explain international humanitarian law and courses are provided at the universities that teach international humanitarian law.

Estonia follows the principles set out in the OSCE Code of Conduct.

4.2. What has been done to ensure that armed forces personnel are aware of being individually accountable under national and international law for their actions?

The personnel of armed forces are aware of their individual responsibility through courses during the conscription and through the course of international humanitarian law taught at the unit level. Dissemination is provided also through military lawyers and senior officers and commanders, the latter who are educated on their own responsibility and responsibility of their orders and for the acts of their subordinates. Units to be deployed abroad are also briefed on international humanitarian law, war crimes and individual responsibility and command responsibility.

4.3. How does your State ensure that armed forces are not used to limit the peaceful and lawful exercise of human and civil rights by persons as individuals or as representatives of groups nor to deprive them of national, religious, cultural, linguistic or ethnic identity?

The Defence Forces Organization Act defines the functions of the Defence Forces as follows: the military defence of the state and participation in collective defence; preparation for the military defence of the state and participation in collective defence; participation in international military co-operation pursuant to the procedure provided for in the National Defence Act and performance of other functions imposed on the Defence Forces by law.

Furthermore, The Act foresees that the Defence Forces shall be involved, where necessary, with the right to apply direct coercion prescribed for the police in Chapter 5 of the Law Enforcement Act: 1) in prevention and obstruction of an attack against national defence objects, of an illegal crossing of the state border or a temporary control line and of criminal offences pursuant to the procedure provided for in the Law Enforcement Act; 2) in the solution of emergency situation pursuant to the procedure provided for in the State of Emergency Act; 3) in the regulation of traffic and ensuring of safety in an emergency situation area pursuant to the procedure provided for in the Emergency Act. The Defence Forces shall be involved, where necessary, without the right to apply direct coercion: 1) in the performance of emergency situation work pursuant to the procedure provided for in the Emergency Act; 2) in the solution of a rescue event pursuant to the procedure provided for in the Rescue Act; 3) in the performance of the functions provided for in clauses 1, 4–6 and 8 of subsection 1 of § 3 of the Police and Border Guard Act and subsection 3 of § 16 of the Emergency Act. Therefore, the use of the Defence Forces to limit the peaceful and lawful exercise of human and civil rights is strictly limited by laws in force.

4.4. What has been done to provide for the individual service member's exercise of his or her civil rights and how does your State ensure that the country's armed forces are politically neutral?

A Service of a Chief Inspector (subject to Commander of Defence Forces) has been implemented in the Headquarters of the Defence Forces to provide for the individual service member's exercise of his or her civil rights.

The Defence Forces Service Act sets out the prohibition for a regular member of the Defence Forces to participate in political parties. Also, that a member of the Defence Forces shall not use his or her command or disciplinary authority in the interests of a political party. Reservists participating in training exercises shall not participate in the activities of political parties during active service.

4.5. How does your State ensure that its defence policy and doctrine are consistent with international law?

International law and international obligations that the Republic of Estonia has undertaken are to be obliged, therefore defence policy and doctrine are drafted taking into account relevant international law and obligations taken on by the Republic of Estonia (i.e. international humanitarian law, arms control treaties, human rights, the UN Charter and customary international law).

3.1. Measures taken to aim at the implementation of the UN Security Council resolution 1325 (Women in Conflict Prevention, Crisis Management and Post-Conflict Rehabilitation)

Estonia supports the implementation of Security Council resolution 1325 and is a co-sponsor of its follow-up resolutions 1820, 1888, 2106, 2122 and 2242. The implementation of the objectives set out in resolution 1325 is important for Estonia for several reasons. As a member of the UN, the European Union, NATO and the OSCE, Estonia participates actively in maintaining international peace and security. The promotion of the rights and situation of women is one of the priorities of Estonia's foreign policy, development cooperation and human rights activities. Estonia is contributing to international military and civilian missions in countries where conflict resolution and peace-building is directly linked to the implementation of resolution 1325 and where the inclusion of gender dimension in the planning and implementation of missions will enhance the efficiency of international efforts.

Estonia compiles five year national action plans in order to systematise and advance Estonia's activities regarding resolution 1325. The following principles have served as a basis for compiling the action plans:

- to base the plan on the already existing actions in the field of peace, security, development and gender equality, reinforcing and systematising them through the plan;
- to focus on specific priorities to ensure the maximum efficiency of Estonia's contribution;
- to associate Estonia's other planning documents, including development plans and strategies, with the action plan considering the action plan's interrelatedness with a number of different fields of activity.

Estonia adopted the first national action plan for the implementation of the resolution for the period 2010–2014. The national action plan was updated in 2015, for the period 2015–2019. Both action plans were drawn up under the guidance of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, in close cooperation with domestic partners. The national action plans and reports on their implementation have been submitted to the Government of the Republic for information. The first national action plan set the aim of defining and systematising Estonia's gender sensitive activities in international missions and development cooperation, and of increasing sectoral awareness in society. The second national action plan, for the period 2015–2019, focused on improving the situation of women and empowering women in both conflict and post-conflict areas, raising awareness, and enhancing cooperation and information exchange.

One of the most important sectoral developments of the period 2015–2019 is the ratification of the Council of Europe Convention on preventing and combating violence against women and domestic violence (the so-called Istanbul Convention) in Estonia in 2017. At the core of the Convention is the protection of the victim and the introduction of the notion that the victim is never to blame for what happened. Accession to the Convention will see a greater focus on the prevention of violence against women.

The most important achievement in the field of defence addressing the issues of the resolution was the 2017 development and approval of the official policy document 'Policy for Increasing the Opportunities for Women's Participation in the Defence Forces' ('Poliitika naiste kaitseväeteenistuse osalemise võimaluste suurendamiseks'). As part of the policy, the permanent campaign 'Women in Uniform' ('Naised vormi') was launched in 2017, aimed at increasing women's awareness of opportunities to participate in military service. Since 2018, the Ministry of Defence has a separate position to address the issues of women, peace, and security. The main tasks for that person are to manage activities promoting the inclusion and integration of women in the Defence Forces and to participate in relevant policy-making at both national and international levels. A separate position has also been created in the Defence Forces, whose service duties include advising on gender equality issues.

Estonia has helped to ensure the human rights of women in conflict and post-conflict areas and has supported women's empowerment through bilateral and multilateral development cooperation. The volume of bilateral development cooperation and humanitarian aid projects has increased by several times during the period under review. Estonia's own experts and civil society organisations have often implemented these activities. Conferences, trainings and seminars on the issues of women, peace, and security have been organised regularly to raise national awareness regarding the objectives of Resolution 1325. Sectoral information work is carried out on the prevention of trafficking in human beings and domestic violence. The programme of the UN Youth Delegate and regular model United 3 See more on the website of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs 5 Nations simulations have been launched to present the issues of the UN, including Resolution 1325, to Estonian schoolchildren.

Experts in the field of women, peace, and security are increasingly convinced that promoting the objectives of Resolution 1325 will support the protection of human rights in the world. Protecting human rights, in turn, means contributing to conflict prevention. The consistent inclusion of the gender perspective in conflict prevention, resolution, and peacebuilding, as well as in addressing sexual violence in conflicts entails a focus on women not remaining mere victims, but also their active and meaningful involvement in conflict resolution. Although much progress has been made in ensuring women's human rights since the adoption of Resolution 1325, changing attitudes and principles is a long-term process.

The United Nations Entity for Gender Equality and the Empowerment of Women (UN Women) is the coordinator of Resolution 1325 issues at UN level. Statistics collected by the Entity show that there are global challenges in meeting the objectives of all four key actions in the field of women, peace, and security (prevention of gender-based violence; involvement of women in peace and decision-making; protection of women and girls from violence; gender mainstreaming in post-conflict reconstruction). Estonia has paid more systematic attention to the aims of Resolution 1325 since 2010, when Estonia's first national action plan on women, peace, and security was adopted. The most recent action plan, Estonia's third, continues progress towards the goals of previous periods and focuses on areas where Estonia can help implement the aims of Resolution 1325 with the resources available to Estonia. Based on the above, the objectives of Estonia's action plan 2020–2025 are divided into four groups:

- support for women's human rights and women's empowerment in conflict and post-conflict areas;
- increasing sectoral expertise in the field of women, peace, and security in agencies and raising awareness in Estonia in general;
- increasing the representation of women in positions related to ensuring peace and security in Estonia, including opportunities to participate in international military and civilian operations.
